When entering this Pestana Historic Hotel, let yourself be impressed by the wide marble staircase and the decorative tiles and enter the rooms that are beautifully decorated with paintings, tapestries, pottery and other art objects that help make the environment even more sumptuous and princely.

Marvel at the chests of drawers, chairs, counters, low and high-reliefs that are part of the estate of Portuguese and Indo-Portuguese furniture and feel part of the legend that surrounds this mystical and timeless space. And this world, where you can feel peace, tranquility and sophistication is further enhanced by the attentive presence of those who know the inn like the backs of their hands. The service gives the greatest emphasis to your stay, allowing you to take breakfast, lunch and dinner in a unique, imposing and extraordinary space.

RESTAURANT OF THE POUSADA

Exceed all your expectations when you allow yourself to lunch or dinner at the high-ceiling room with imposing stone pilasters that add monumentality to your meal.

The chairs, wide, heavy and comfortable, beg you not to rush, to taste and give due attention to the experience of tasting a bit of Alentejo in the royal residence. Ask for snacks without any hesitation; they are always based on seasonal and regional products. The green olives themselves, with the characteristic acidity of the Alentejo, set the tone to a full, comforting meal.

Be sure to try the pork shank, awarded in regional contests, or the golden cod, whose original recipe of Elvas is more than 40 years old. Look for the seasonal suggestions in the menu, it is obvious that in August you will hardly feel like a boar “feijoada” made on bread, but in December it is perhaps the most appealing dish of the menu. And, whatever you do, be sure to taste the famous Estremoz water pudding, presented here in a small single dose which you will be amazed to know is made using only 3 ingredients... one of which is water

Estremoz is the “White City” of the Alentejo thanks to its rows of white houses and the marble deposits.

OUT

Estremoz is one of the most important villages in the Alentejo Region placed in a strategic location, on the route from Lisbon to Madrid. Encircled by two city walls, we can find a first wall surrounding the historical centre known as “Vila Velha” and a second one protecting the lower part of the village.

Located on a hill, Estremoz offers very beautiful surrounding landscapes. The climate generally is mild and the high temperatures during the summer, almost invariably, create a golden scenario by the sun shining for hours and the marble quarries.

Find out the main farms and wine producers. You will be dazzled by this heritage full of churches and palaces.

TO DO

Walking through the Old Village, the “Vila Velha”, – the historical centre of Estremoz, discover the beautiful D. José I Square, better known as the “Largo do Rossio”, where the Antiques Fair and Flea Market is celebrated each Saturday.

Sports such as hunting, fishing and shooting are the most practiced in this region, together with bird watching, which fascinates both the inhabitants and the innumerable visitors. In the mountains of “Serra d’Ossa” and in the area of “Campo Maior”, the rarest bird species can be photographed. Do not end your stay without seeing the vineyards and wine producing cellars, like the “Herdade das Servas” or the “Adega João Portugal Ramos”, both located in Penha de Estremoz.

TO SEE

In addition to its great history, Estremoz boasts a vast and very beautiful heritage. Within the walls of the historical centre, start your visit with a tour to the 13th century Medieval Castle and the Rainha Santa Chapel – the building in which the Pousada Rainha Santa Isabel is embedded.

Also in the centre, you will find the S. Francisco Convent and Church, charming palaces such as the “Palácio Reynolds” and the “Palácio dos Marqueses da Praia e Monforte”. The “Prof. Joaquim Vermelho Municipal Museum” exhibits pieces of sacred art, furniture and a very valuable collection of the city’s clay figurines. Outside the town, visit Evoramonte, a tiny village composed of barely two quiet streets, and a castle considered to be one of the great wonders of the Alentejo Region.
