IN

The 'Penhas da Saúde' Sanatorium was projected in the 1920's by the architect Cottinelli Telmo, who also projected the 'Padrão dos Descobrimentos' (The Monument to the Discoveries). During decades, the building serves as sanatorium to treat the employees of the railroad company suffering from tuberculosis. In 1959, the sanatorium was closed and so it stayed for long decades.

Now this imposing building at 1,200 meter height in the mountains has been recovered. Eduard Souto de Moura was in charge of maintaining the original building's integrity and giving it a new purpose: to attract families, mountaineering fans and ski and snow lovers

The good air of the 'Serra da Estrela' mountains are now a touristic triumph in this renewed space.

OUT

When we think about the Serra da Estrela Mountains, we immediately imagine snow, winter sports, cold ski days and evenings seated in front of the fireplace. But the Serra is much more than this. It is the land of the wool industry, of delicious cheese and birthplace of the 15th century discoverers.

Here is the spring of the longest entirely Portuguese river, the Mondego River, which flows towards the West to the Atlantic Ocean and the beaches of Figueira da Foz.

TO DO

Here, cold becomes an element of the beauty of the high lands, transforming this hotel in a unique place to appreciate the views and the activities of the cold season.

But outside this season, the interest for this area is not less.

The white slopes, covered with snow, give way to the clear and green summer landscape with its new atmosphere that still wants to be discovered.

TO EAT

Cheese is clearly the business card of this region. This is a cheese with its own history, exclusively produced with sheep milk and clotted with a regional flower.

The meat used for the regional dishes is mainly kid's or lamb's meat, tender and tasty. After a long walk, take the chance for a good meal, because here the journeys – like the experiences – tend to last long.
