

The background of the image is a vibrant, sunny scene of a resort. In the foreground, a large, clear blue swimming pool reflects the sky and the surrounding architecture. Along the edge of the pool, several dark-colored lounge chairs are neatly arranged. Behind the chairs, there is a row of lush tropical plants, including tall palm trees and colorful flowering shrubs. In the background, a multi-story resort building with a warm orange-brown facade and arched windows and balconies stands prominently. The balconies have glass railings and some outdoor furniture. The overall atmosphere is bright and inviting, typical of a high-end vacation destination.

THE BEAUTY OF THE PEARL OF THE ATLANTIC

One of the unmissable experiences on the Madeira Island are the Levadas – interior trails that cross the entire territory. Some are more challenging for adventurers, while others are more accessible to anyone. These paths offer the best way to explore the Laurisilva Forest, recognized as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, providing a perfect union with nature.

Thanks to the mild climate, it is possible to practice nautical, land, or aerial activities at any time of the year. In addition, you can opt for excursions around the island: to the northeast, discover Santana and its picturesque little houses, to the northwest, you can dive into the Natural Pools of Porto Moniz. If you prefer pebble beaches, west of Funchal, you can enjoy the enchanting beach of Fajã dos Padres, whose crystal-clear waters invite diving.

In Madeira, there is a spirit of celebration and festivity throughout the year. Among the most popular festivities are the fireworks display on New Year's Eve, Carnival, the Flower Festival in the spring, and the Atlantic Festival in the summer.

The Black Scabbard fish fillets served with banana, the dried horse mackerel, smoked swordfish, octopus, and snails are just some of the many irresistible delicacies that fill the table, both in fusion restaurants and high cuisine as well as in the typical village taverns.
